

REVIVE PROJECT: The Ultimate Measurement Guide

How to measure yourself for the perfect upcycled fit.

Getting the right fit is the most important part of the redesign process. Don't worry—it's easy! You only need a flexible measuring tape and a mirror (or a friend to help).

The Golden Rules

1. Keep it level: Make sure the tape measure is level around your body and parallel to the floor.
 2. Don't pull tight: The tape should sit flat against your skin but shouldn't dig in. You should be able to fit one finger behind the tape.
 3. Wear thin clothes: For the most accurate results, measure over underwear or tight-fitting activewear.

1. BUST / CHEST

This is not your bra size.

- Lift your arms to the side.
- Wrap the tape measure around the fullest part of your chest/bust.
- Drop your arms and relax to get the correct reading.

2. NATURAL WAIST

This is the narrowest part of your torso, usually above your belly button.

- Tip: Bend to one side like a teapot. The point where your body creases is your natural waist.
- Measure around this point, keeping the tape slightly loose for breathing room.

3. HIPS

This is often lower than you think!

- Stand with your feet together.
- Measure around the widest part of your hips and buttocks (approx. 20cm / 8in below your waist).

4. SHOULDER WIDTH

- Measure across your back from the tip of one shoulder bone to the other.
- Follow the natural curve of your shoulders slightly.

5. SLEEVE LENGTH

- Relax your arm by your side.
- Measure from the edge of your shoulder bone, down your arm, to your wrist bone.

6. INSEAM (For Pants & Jeans)

The easiest way to measure this is using a pair of pants you already own and love.

- Lay the pants flat on the floor.
- Measure from the crotch seam (where the legs meet) all the way down the inside leg to the bottom hem.
